

URGE FREE BRIDGE FOR WINONA WITH ALL OTHER CITIES

Officers of Association of Commerce Again Take up Project up River

The question of a free bridge across the Mississippi river at Winona was again brought before the Winona Common Council by L. S. La France and Secretary C. A. Bolton of the Association of Commerce. They urged that the council take steps at once to make it possible for the interstate structure to be made a free bridge at any time without the delay of lengthy formalities which might prevent the bridge from being taken over by the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Secretary Bolton explained that bills are now being prepared by joint committees of the Minnesota and Wisconsin legislatures which, when passed will provide that all "free" bridges across the Mississippi and St. Croix rivers will be taken over and become a part of the highway systems of the two states. "If such a bill is passed," Secretary Bolton stated, "we will have to keep up the maintenance of our bridge, as well as the responsibility, perhaps for all time, unless we have a free bridge at the time the bill is passed."

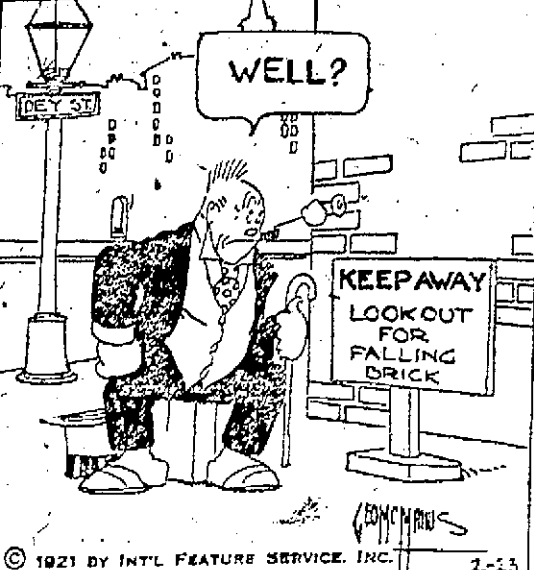

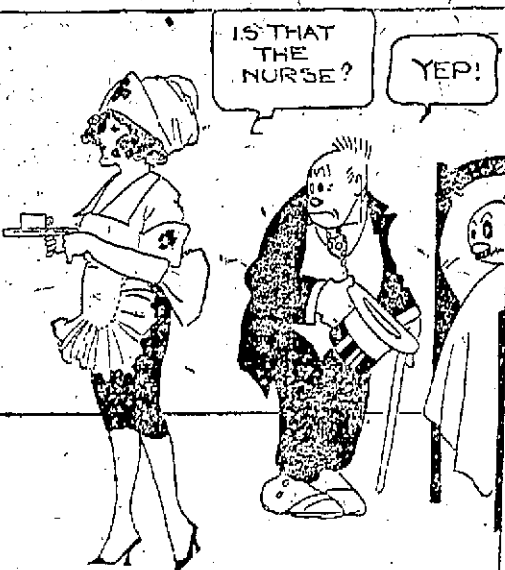

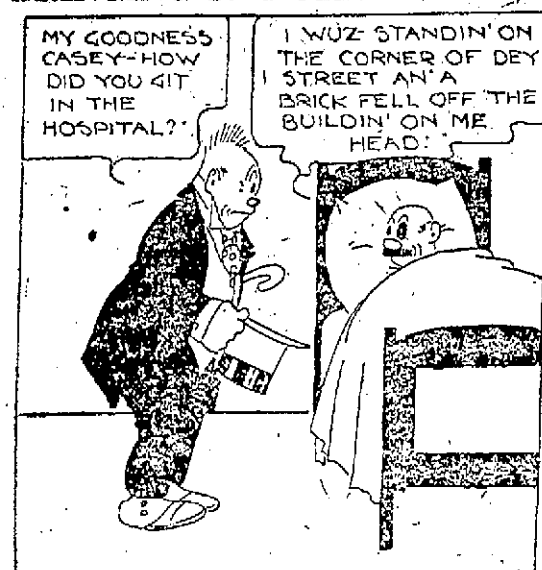

The bill does not include bridges that become free after the passage of the bill, but only those bridges which are already free, according to the secretary, and for this reason he urged that steps be taken by the council whereby the council can, if it becomes probable that the bills will be passed, make the bridge free on such short notice that Winona will be included in the free bridge list.

Secretary Bolton declared that Winona is now the last city in the two states which maintains a toll bridge, all the other cities having already made their bridges free ones.

Mr. La France then recalled to the council members the action taken by the association last autumn when that body offered to co-operate with the city in making the bridge free from toll.

The plan at that time, he said, was that if the association of Commerce would take steps to relieve the city of the responsibility of the high wagon bridge approach on the Wisconsin side of the river, the city council would make the bridge free of toll. By consulting Wisconsin authorities the association officers learned that if the residents of the township in which the Wisconsin end of the bridge was located, would subscribe a certain amount to the improvement of the bridge approach, the county and state would have to provide a proportionate amount. It was estimated that if the residents of Buffalo township should raise $10,000, the county and state provisions would adequately care for the improvement of the approach.

The residents of the town of Buffalo, however, were unable to raise that amount of money and the Association of Commerce then offered to subscribe $10,000 and give it to the town of Buffalo to be used in improving the highway, thereby doing away with the liability of accident on the approach, decreasing the responsibility of the city. The bridge tolls would then have been removed on the first of April.

Mr. La France stated, however, that the county board of Buffalo county rejected the offer.

MINES RESUME WORK AFTER SETTLEMENT OF WAGE DISPUTE

PITTSBURG Kas.—Mines H and J, of the George K. Mackie Fuel company were in operation Wednesday morning, the operators' association here announced. The mines were idle more than two weeks because of a strike called by President Alexander Howat and the district executive board over a controversy concerning wages alleged to be due Karl Mishmash, a former employee. The Kansas court of industrial relations awarded Mishmash the amount he claimed. Mishmash received his pay Tuesday.

OVERCHARGE CLAIMS FLOODING RATE BODY

WASHINGTON.—The interstate commerce commission is flooded with claims of overcharges by railroads during government control. A recent ruling of the railroad administration that all such claims must be passed upon by the commission instead of by the courts and fixing the last day upon which they may be filed as March 1, will probably bring 500,000 such claims in the next few days.

National Fish Day

THE United States Bureau of Fisheries moves that you observe Fish Day, March 9. All fish dealers second the motion. It is to be a national affair this year, though, hereafter it is to have an international flavor, by joining hands with Canada.
The Dominion already has a Fish Day, the first day of Lent. Next year the United States will pick that day, and fish will be the centerpiece of every dinner from Rio Grande to Hudson's Bay.
For this is a fish-eating affair.
Those who enjoy baiting the hook had jumped at the conclusion that it was to be a day wherein everybody throws off all cares of life and devotes himself to rod and line.
Fish Day is not like that!
On Fish Day (as they have planned it) you stick to your regular job and eat fish morning, noon and evening.
That's all there's to it.
It's not a national fishing day; it's just a fish day.

The Dismal Swamp

YEARS ago a credulous man bought a "farm" down south. He had visions of a southern plantation, with darkies singing, and all that, but the spot was finally located toward the middle of the Dismal Swamp.
Nothing could have appeared more worthless than.
Today it is estimated by C. C. Osborn, in the Bulletin of the United States Geological Survey, that the Dismal Swamp contains 672,000,000 tons of peat available for fuel.
This swamp lies in Virginia and North Carolina.
It is not as dismal as it was before the digging of the Dismal Swamp canal, which along with various other ditches, has drained 700 of its 2200 square miles.
Much of this drained land is now under cultivation.
In the remaining 1500 square miles are found great beds of peat, in deposits ranging from one to twenty feet. The peat is best in the deep deposits; here it is black and comparatively free from impurities. The thick beds lying in the region east and northeast of Lake Drummond have been excavated somewhat recently and peat eighteen feet deep has been exposed.
Morals - (a) there's hope in even a Dismal Swamp, and (b) there's peat for heat when coal has gone.

Hoggishness

WE hope the state and federal game wardens have not overlooked this item in the news of Monday:
GLENWOOD, Iowa.—Claude J. Daupree, farmer, two miles north of here, saw his ten-acre pasture literally covered with a flock of wild ducks. Getting two friends, each armed with shotguns, they fired into the flock for half an hour before the birds flew away. More than 500 ducks were killed. Several were captured alive.
It is in the interests of decent sportsmanship everywhere that, if this appalling story is true, Messrs. Daupree and Co. be "got", and got as plenty. The cold-blooded hoggishness of laying down a barrage on a flock of wild ducks sitting in a field is made the worse by the fact that spring shooting is illegal under the United States migratory bird act. If the facts are as stated, it should be simple to get convictions—and not for the purpose of inflicting nominal fines either.

Assisting Cupid

"WHAT will you have: blond or brunette?"
Thus the love broker interrogates his prospective customer. He has all varieties and all are marvels of perfection with refined tastes and all feeling the cosmic urge that would lead them to the altar without formalities of courtship.
These mercenary aids to cupid are said to reap rich harvests bringing lonesome folk together. They charge all the traffic will bear and find it comparatively easy to cash in on the credulity of their clients.
And their clients are not few. Literally hundreds of men are said to be picking their wives from mail order catalogs.

The reason for this may be found in the spirit of adventure that is strong in man. Sally Brown, the quiet little widow who lives across the way, is a mighty fine woman but he has known Sally all his life.
So the would-be benedict, longing for a bit of adventure, decides to take the "comely widow of 35, refined and gentle; sparkling black eyes and loving disposition."
He wants adventure. Usually he gets it.

Who Wants a Venus?

ONCE more we are informed that the modern girl is inferior to the Venus de Milo. A University of Pennsylvania professor releases the bad news. He compares the armless wonder with the modern campus flapper and is pessimistic about it.
Styles in girls change. Venus represents the ideals of ancient Greece.
Heavyweight beauties were in vogue in these United States back in the days of Sam T. Jack.
The 1921 model cannot be judged by the old standards simply for the reason that she hasn't her full growth.
Miss De Milo was an adult lady when she posed for her portrait in marble.
The queen of the hour with whom the professor finds fault is still on the giggly side of 20. She is a source of anxiety to her parents, while her hard-hearted classic rival is far past all frivolity.
Clothes make a difference, too. Our flapper still wears enough to render detailed comparison with the Venus person unfair.
Study the expression on the graven countenance of the goddess and choose between her and the vital, keen, wide-awake, life-loving young woman who today shocks the professors and tomorrow, or the day after, will be reading papers at the club meeting on the Scientific Education of Children.
It'll soon be warm enough for the young lady down the street to worry about the street light illuminating the front porch hammock.

Local socialists hit a snag when they discovered that Theodore Schulte, their candidate for mayor in this spring election, is not yet a full citizen of Wisconsin, having applied for first papers less than two years ago and can therefore not get his full citizenship by the time he would have to enter office. Organizers admit the lack of citizenship but contend they can get legal advice that the law which prevents an unnaturalized citizen from voting cannot keep him from holding office.
J. P. Benoit has left for Mobile, Alabama, to attend the National Superintendents' convention which begins tomorrow.
Battle royal between the people of La Crosse represented by Attorney Winter and the La Crosse Gas and Electric company is expected when the state railroad commission convenes in the council chamber of the city hall at 10 o'clock tomorrow. This hearing is a result of the application of the local lighting company for permission to increase its rates for electric and gas lighting. The issue will be fought out upon every point, and a number of citizens will be subpoenaed to testify as to various phases of the case.

A Man For the Ages
BY
Irving Bacheller
(Copyright 1919 by Irving Bacheller)

"For fear somebody will spoil it with another hog story, I'm a little afraid of anything I can say. I would venture this, that the man Webster is a prophet. In his Plymouth address he hints receding into never returning distance the clank of chains and all the horrors of slavery. It will come true."
"Do you think so?" Abe asked.
"Surely—there are so many of us who hate it. These Yankees hate it and they and their children are scattering all over the midlands. The love of liberty is the call of their blood and the marrow of their bones. Liberty means freedom for all. Wait until these babies, coming out here by the wagon load, have grown to manhood. Slavery will have to reckon with them."
"I hate it, too," said Abe. "Down the Mississippi I have seen men and women sold like oxen. If I live I'm going to let that thing on the head some day."
"Do you still want to be a lawyer," Kelso asked.
"Yes, but sometimes I think I'd make a better blacksmith," said Abe. "I believe you'd do better with the hammer of argument."
"If I had the education likely I would, I'm trying to make up my mind what's best for me."
"No, you're trying to decide what is best for your friends and your country and for the reign of law and justice and liberty."
"But I think every man acts from selfish motives," Abe insisted.
Dr. Allen murmured as follows:
"The other night you happened to remember you had overcharged Mrs. Peters for a bag of molasses and after you had closed the store you walked three miles to return the money which belonged to her. Why did you do it?"
"For a selfish motive," said Abe. "I believe honesty is the best policy."
"Then you took that hog with just to advertise your honesty—to induce people to call you 'Honest Abe' as they have begun to do?"
"I wouldn't want to put it that way," said Abe.
"But that's the only way out," the doctor insisted, "and we know honest ones would have to call you 'Sordid Abe.'"
"There's a hidden Abe and you haven't got acquainted with him yet," Kelso interposed. "We have all caught a glimpse of his tonight. It's the Abe that loves honor and justice and humanity and their great realm of freedom that is growing up here in the new world. He loves them better than time or fortune or life itself. I think it must have been that Abe whose voice sounded like a trumpet just now and who sent you off to Mrs. Peters with the money. You haven't a chance to know him but we have. Some day you two will get acquainted."
"I don't know how to plead to that indictment," Abe answered. "It looks so serious I shall have to take counsel."
At this moment there was a loud rattle on the door. Mr. Kelso opened it and said: "Hello, Bill! Come in."
A heavy footed, bow-legged man, bent under a great pack, partly covered with bed clothing, stood in the doorway.
"Hello, Mr. Kelso," the bent man answered. "The poor man traveling here has come back with a heavy pack. I had to take it off my back before I could go."
Staggering beneath his load he let it down to the ground.
"Bring in your Trojan horse and point out to me let out its four and twenty wheels with bounding. I'll have some bread and milk for you in a minute. Gentlemen, this is my friend Bill—a wandering pioneer of trade."
"I bet a wonderful line of goods—wonderful! wonderful!" said Mr. Kelso, gesturing with both hands. "Silk and satin, de flowers of de prairie, de birds of de air could not show you goods like dem. You will fall in love. If I do not let you have dem you will break your hearts. And I have here one instrument dat make all kind o' music."
"First sampler—then open your Trojan horse," said Kelso.
"First I must show my goods," Bill insisted. "For I'll let you take dem all—everything was I have in dat pack and you pay my price and your bank me and say 'Bill, vat you have to deing.'"
"I'll bet you four bits I don't," said Kelso.
"You are my friend! I would not make your money like dat so easy. No! It would not be right. These are Sam's goods, gentlemen—so you an't hurt me—nothing like dem in de world."
He began to undo his pack while the little company stood around him.
"Gentlemen, you can see how you can not buy. Only my friend can have dem goods." He went on glibly as he removed the cover of the pack. Suddenly there was a lively stir in it. To the amazement of all a beautiful girl threw aside the ticking and

PEGGY STENCILS OWN WINDOW DRAPES AND SAVES HER PIN MONEY
(A "Make" Article for Girls)
Peg's room was finished in blue. Blue was her favorite color, all right, but somehow she wasn't satisfied with the room—something seemed lacking. "Maybe these plain white curtains ought to have a little color in them," thought she.
So she took down the heavy scrim drapes and decided to stencil some sort of a design on them. Red, she thought, would go best with the blue drapings. And roses, red roses, were what she planned to stencil on the edges of the white drapes.
At the art shop downtown she bought at a small cost a tube of red oil paint, a small bottle of turpentine, a stencil of roses that suited her, and a long-handled paint brush with short, stiff bristles.
Arrived home, she laid a big piece of blotting paper on a board on the table and over it placed a corner of the scrim curtain.
Then, in an old cup, she mixed together a little of the oil paint and turpentine. She tested the paint on a scrap cloth to see that she had the right color, and that the paint was not too thick.
The stencil pattern was pinned evenly on the corner of the curtain a half inch from the hem. Dipping the brush into the paint, she dabbed it carefully on the spots of cloth that showed through the stencil.
Soon the first strip of stenciling was finished, so Peg took the pins from the pattern and moved it along the edge of the curtain and commenced stenciling once more.
In a short while the whole length and bottom of the curtain had been stenciled with roses, and Peg surveyed her work proudly.
She did not fold the curtains immediately, but allowed the paint to dry first, and then hung the drapes to the window.
How much more cheerful those strips of roses made the room!
Peg found that her home-stenciled curtains could be washed as readily as the ordinary colored ones if the paint was not too thick and the same amount of care was used, and now she won't have any other kind in her room.

BOYHOOD STORIES OF FAMOUS MEN

Andrew Jackson
"Here, boy, black my boots," cried an English officer to a small boy. The boy turned and seeing the man speaking, started to run away.
The officer called again, and for an answer the young fellow ran all the harder. But he was soon overtaken by the man.
"You will disobey me," roared the infuriated officer. He pulled his sword from the sheath. "Take that!" he bellowed and slapped the weapon across the lad's face.
Andrew Jackson, when he grew up, became a great Indian fighter, and President of the United States. Because of his fighting spirit in everything he undertook he was known as "Old Hickory."

WHAT MAKES IT LIGHT?

BY DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON
One of the achievements of the last few years is an exploration of the earth's atmosphere higher and more thorough than has ever been accomplished before. Not only have men ascended to unprecedented altitudes, but they have sent much higher balloons with self-registering instruments. We are beginning to learn about the air.
We learned long ago that as we rise toward the sun we do not grow warm but cold; we know that the temperature falls about one degree for each 300 feet of elevation for the first seven miles.
If we could go up about 200 miles we should find ourselves, not in blistering heat, but in a temperature about 400 degrees below zero.
But we have learned a more surprising thing. It does not grow light but grows dark. If we could rise thirty miles, we should see the stars at midday. In the full blaze of the sun we should be in darkness.
The energy of the sun which we know as light and heat is not transmitted as light and heat, any more than the electric current in the wire is perceptible as heat or light while it is in transmission.
The light becomes light when the energy of the sun encounters the friction of the coarser molecules of the atmosphere. The fine dust, which impedes the solar energy and darkens the light, is the real occasion of the light.
This fact seems to me to have helpful practical suggestion as well as scientific value. Perhaps if we knew a little more we should discover that those very qualities in life which appear to impede our plans and darken our hopes are essential to our highest welfare.

"Exactly!" Abe exclaimed.

LABOR MARSHALLS FORCES TO MEET ATTACK ON UNIONS

Representatives of National Organizations Meeting in Washington

LABORS "BILL OF RIGHTS" PRESENTED TO CONFERENCE

Will Plan Program to Combat Open Shop and Wage Cuts

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Representatives of the 109 national and international unions affiliated in the American Federation of Labor met here Wednesday in an extraordinary labor conference.

The conference is considered of epochal importance and is one of the few of its kind ever held by the federation.

The first business was presentation by the executive council of a "bill of rights" and recommendations for a labor program.

The council's program was understood to provide for a campaign by organized labor to combat anti-union shops, wage reductions, compulsory arbitration, labor injunction and "open shop" propaganda.

Federal and state legislation to further the cause of organized labor is to be considered.

The conference, union leaders said, is said to determine the attitude the federation shall take in its relation with the incoming republican administration. Survey of industrial conditions throughout the country was being taken by labor leaders here for today's meeting and all agreed that the present depression was the worst the federation has faced in years.

"The coal mining industry has been especially hard hit," said John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America. "Production is less than 60 per cent of normal. We have 100,000 men who have not done any work since the first of the year. The miners that are working are only getting from two to three days a week."

Michael Tigh, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, said he had never seen conditions so bad, but added he believed the worst will soon be over as some of the bills already are starting up.

Conditions in the metal trades were described as bad by A. J. Berres, head of the metal trades department of the federation. He reported work in the shipbuilding industry as slow, with little improvement in sight.

The present industrial depression and widespread unemployment, leaders said, would not deter the federation in its plan to combat attempts to further reduce wages and inaugurate the "open shop."

President Gompers is presiding at the conference. More than 200 delegates are present, the majority being executive officers of the various unions.

PROFESSIONAL AND EDUCATED MEN CALL ON THE "WBU" FOR THEIR OFFICE HELP

February 8, 1921.

We have this morning wired Miss Leona Maes to report here for work as soon as possible and to wire when we may expect her. We shall pay her an initial salary of $75 per month and give her every chance to advance and make good. Thank you for your attention.

STOUT INSTITUTE, Menomonie, Wis.

Right from schoolroom to good position. We were offered $100 as salary but advised $75 for first month.

I want you to know that I appreciate very much what you have done for me and intend to prove myself worthy of the training I received at the "WBU". I know that the experience I received while in the office was very much to my benefit and will help me a great deal in my work here.

The work is mostly dictation, work on form letters, cutting stencils, and a little filing. We cut on the average of three or four stencils a day. They do a lot of work to be sent to the printers.

Doctor Harvey is very nice to work for. His daughter is secretary of the Publicity Committee and I do most of my work for her. The office is right in the school building and is very pleasant to work in.

I have a very nice rooming and boarding place and on the whole, like it very well here.

I will work for $75 for the first month, and then if I am capable of doing the work, will get more the second month.

ROTARY CLUB WINS FIRST GAMES FROM KIWANIS TUESDAY

The Rotary club volleyball team won the first set from the Kiwanis aggregation at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday noon by defeating them in two games. The games were the first of a series of three to be played by the two teams.

An explanation of the 21 to 2 defeat in the first game was given by several members of the Rotary club who said that the Kiwanis team was composed of too many members, with the result that they were continually getting tangled up in each other.

It was said that the Kiwanis team sprang up when the members of the organization forsok the dining room and came to the support of their team giving this as a reason for the green competition in the second game. The second match was the best exhibition of volleyball seen on the "Y" floor for some time, was the statement of E. C. Corbett.

The second of the series of three matches will be played at the Y. M. C. A. on March 3.

HAWKEYE FIVE PUTS GRIMP IN INDIANA'S TITLE HOPES, 22-15

Wisconsin Topples Ohio State at Columbus Tuesday Night
42 to 24

IOWA CITY, Iowa.—The University of Iowa basketball team knocked the University of Indiana out of a first place tie in the Big Ten race with a 22 to 15 left last night. Iowa led all the way, but the Hoosiers at no time were more than five points behind.

Tight guarding held all but Dehority of Indiana from scoring from the floor. Dean and Marxson of the Hoosiers starred in the passing game, but could not get through the defense for baskets. Four Iowa men split the scoring, with McGovern doing fine work with three shots from a running guard position.

Iowa jumped into an early lead and maintained its advantage until the half ended with the score 11 to 5. With two minutes of play left near the finish, Indiana threatened, crawling up to two points behind the Hawkeyes, but Iowa spurred and baskets by Brohwein and McGovern outdistanced the Hoosiers.

Indiana, 42; Ohio, 25.
COLUMBUS, O.—Wisconsin's basketball team ran roughshod over Ohio State last night in the second half and won out, 42 to 26. The first half was close.

State led for much of the first period, but was trailing, 13 to 15, when the first half ended. In the second half State showed up miserably. McIntosh and Ceaser starred for Wisconsin, their goal shooting being unusually accurate. Greenup and Styker played the best game for State.

Joie Ray Wins Boston Mile at Indoor Meet

BOSTON, Mass.—Joie Ray of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, sped to victory in the Boston mile at the American Legion's annual indoor track and field games Tuesday night as successfully as he pilots his taxicab through the traffic jams between Chicago's railroad terminals.

Asserting his speed with a sprint at one time and a forceful rush at another, he passed Harold C. Cutbill of the Boston A. A. three times when the latter tried to repeat his recent defeat of the national mile champion. Cutbill pegged himself out in his duel with Ray and James J. Connolly of Georgetown university displaced him in second position in the driving finish.

The time, 4 minutes, 32 seconds, was slow as a result of jockeying in the first two laps.

Frank Loomis, Jr., of the Chicago Athletic association won the invitation low hurdles.

U. S. TURNS THE PAGE ON LANGDON SHOOTING INCIDENT AT TOKIO

Case Regarded as Closed Following Punishment of Sentry and Apology of Japan

WASHINGTON, — The incident of the fatal shooting by a Japanese sentry of Lieut. W. H. Langdon, an American naval officer, at Vladivostok last month, was regarded by officials as closed, except for the matter of reparations, as a result of the action of the Japanese government in punishing those responsible for the tragedy and its renewed expressions of regret as conveyed in its reply to the recent American note.

The American government was informed that following a thorough investigation of the shooting of Lieut. Langdon, Japanese commanding officer at Vladivostok, Major General Nishihara had been removed from active duty and that four other officers under his command had been punished because of improper orders under which the sentry was working. The sentry was held blameless, but was sentenced to thirty days imprisonment for dereliction in his testimony regarding the circumstances of the tragedy.

FRENCH WARSHIPS CLASH WITH REDS IN THE BLACK SEA

CONSTANTINOPLE — By The Associated Press. — French destroyers, cruising along the eastern coast of the Black sea, have been engaged with Soviet forces in Gagra, northwest of Sukhumi-Kale. Reports say the Bolsheviks lost heavily from the fire of the French warships.

This appears to be still in the hands of the Georgians, who have ever suffered heavy losses. Dispatches state that the advance of the Soviet army against Tiflis has been delayed by the Bolshevik government at Moscow.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Almost every one knows that Sage and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyerth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

elastically Arbuckle pictures is "The Life of the Party," adapted from Irvin S. Cobb's Saturday Evening Post story of the same name. It is the humorous tale of a genial young lawyer, who for the sake of a pretty girl undertook to break the Milk Trust and got himself into all sorts of side splitting complications. Viora Daniel is the leading woman, and Frank Campanau and Julia Faye are also in the cast.

"The Life of the Party" plays at the Rivoli Thursday Friday and Saturday.

BADGER LEGISLATORS TO HEAR HARDING'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Message to be Transmitted to Madison by Means of Wireless Telephone

WILL UTILIZE APPARATUS AT WISCONSIN UNIVERSITY

Words to be Heard Within Fifth of Second After Spoken

BY FRID L. HOLMES

MADISON, Wis.—Members of the Wisconsin legislature will hear by wireless telephone the inaugural address of President Warren G. Harding at Washington, March 4. This unique demonstration will be carried out by Prof. E. M. Terry of the physics department of the University of Wisconsin.

The demonstration will be staged in the legislature at the suggestion of Assemblyman George Oakes, New Richmond, and Assemblyman Hugh Bullis, Eau Claire. Prof. Terry went over the entire ground on Tuesday and stated that he believed the project was entirely feasible. At the present time the University of Wisconsin has one of the most complete and successfully operated wireless telephone sets in the middle west. Telephone messages are continually heard from the Atlantic coast; the weather reports are sent out from Madison daily by wireless telephone and the Friday evening musical concert has been heard as far south as Texas. One man in Kansas City wrote the university that he heard it as plain as if it were next door.

This complete wireless set now in operation at the University will not be moved to the state capital. One of the trunk line telephones between the university and capital will be utilized. The wires will be brought in to the speaker's desk of the assembly chamber and two horns, one on each corner of the desk of the chief clerk of the assembly, will amplify the inaugural speech. It is estimated that one-fifth of a second after the words pass from President Harding's mouth at Washington they will be distinctly heard in Madison by the wireless telephone.

The amplifier of the wireless telephone does not throw the voice at any great distance and it is highly improbable that the people in the galleries at the assembly chamber will be able to hear the complete inaugural address. It is for this reason that two amplifiers are being used in an attempt to augment the strength of the address. The message will probably come to Madison by way of the Arlington Naval Radio station which is the most powerful one in the United States. Prof. Terry was attempting to get in connection at Washington Wednesday to get full details as to when the inaugural address would be delivered and what radio station was to be used to transmit it.

Members of the Wisconsin legislature are showing great enthusiasm over the coming event. Five years ago the members of the Wisconsin legislature were given an opportunity to talk by long distance telephone to San Francisco and this was considered a feat that no man would expect to be duplicated within the century. Many of these same members are now to hear President Harding deliver his inaugural address while sitting in the assembly chamber at Madison, 2200 miles away. They will hear the hand play and the cheering and will be in on everything except the handshaking.

SEIZURE OF POWER BY GOVERNMENT IS SCORED IN HOUSE

Washington Day Speaker Denounces Drift Toward Centralization

WASHINGTON.—The drift toward centralization of government with the steadily growing tax on the people was denounced in the house Tuesday by Representative Campbell, republican, Kansas, who was designated to deliver the Washington birthday address.

He declared it would be difficult to enumerate all of the departments, bureaus and commissions since Washington's time to exercise "bureaucratic authority and paternal guardianship over the people."

"There is no activity, business, social, or domestic condition that is not the object of their supervision, their solicitude or their authority," he said.

"Over 600,000 civilian employees make up the army that oversees and directs the affairs of the people and assumes guardianship over them. Government agents and inspectors go merrily on. Government control is the remedy for every ill and government regulation the source of every good."

"This use of government is not without deplorable precedent. The disappointment and despair of the people of France growing out of the delay in the inauguration of the mil-

SIMPLE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of salicylic powder from any drug store. Sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the pores without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get them out after they become hard. The salicylic powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

BALL PLAYER SAVES FIVE CHILDREN FROM DEATH IN FLAMES

CLEVELAND, O.—Heroic efforts of George "Dode" Paskest, outfielder of the Cincinnati National league team, saved the lives of five small children and helped save the lives of ten other persons, when fire broke out in the Union Clothing company store early Wednesday and swept through the second floor where three families were sleeping.

Paskest was passing the store when the fire was discovered. He made three trips into the burning building carrying out five children wrapped in rugs and his overcoat, and directed the other members of three families to safety.

Paskest's hands and arms were badly burned and his face blistered by the flames.
